What is the difference between a Mole & a Gopher??

Gophers & moles are two of the most common lawn & garden pests. Many of the treatments to get rid of them work equally well on either, but it's always good practice to know thine enemy. Here are some simple steps to determining whether you have gophers or moles messing with your lawn & garden.

1. Examine the actual holes they leave. (see picture in middle section) Both are like little volcanic cones. The main difference is that gopher holes look like Mt. Saint Helens, with the hole decidedly taking up most of one side of the mound. A mole hole has a hole in the middle, just like the model you made in grade school with vinegar & baking soda.
2. Consider your location.
3. Try to catch a glimpse of your lawn & garden pest. This is awfully hard, but if you do happen to see your critter, compare it to pictures of moles & gophers. Also, gophers tend to be larger than moles with more obvious teeth. Moles are smaller with longer, sensitive noses. If it's moving slowly enough that you can see more than that clearly, it's probably dead so your problem is solved!

Tips & Warnings

- Determining whether moles or gophers are pestering you can help you get them out of your lawn & garden faster.
- Although the photos are cute, don't attempt to pick up a mole or gopher! Even if you're somehow able to catch one, they're wild animals & they know where you live!
